Longshoremen resume loading grain

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Under a federal court order, longshoremen here resumed loading grain today aboard a ship bound for the Soviet Union.

The longshoremen had stopped loading wheat aboard a Yugoslav freighter, the Bosanka, in the Port of Houston late Monday, contending the sale of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union would cause domestic food prices to increase.

U.S. District Court Judge James Noel granted the West Gulf Maritime Shippers Association a temporary restraining order Tuesday night after being told by lawyers for the international Longshoremen Association — ILA — the workers "would not return without a court order."

Noel then scheduled a hearing for today on the shippers' plea for a permanent injunction aimed at preventing future work stoppages involving the loading of grain purchased by the Soviet Union.

ILA officials said Tuesday their international headquarters had said to halt loading such grain "until there is assurance the sale of this wheat would not be inimical to the American people."

Noel's order applied to longshoremen from Lake Charles, La., to Brownsville, Tex., but those in Houston were the only ones immediately affected.

The shippers asked Noel to order the longshoremen to live up to the terms of their contract, which forbids work stoppages.

The Bosanka was loading part of the 1.2 million metric tons of grain Cargill Inc., Minneapolis, is shipping to Russia under 1975 contracts.

An attorney for the ILA here had said the no-work directive aimed at Soviet grain would remain in effect "until there is assurance that the sale of this wheat would not be inimical to the American people."

Willie Wells, the president of ILA Local 1273, said the dock workers also want to see that U.S. ships and the American seamen who sail them share in transportation of the grain to Russia.

Noel asked ILA leaders Tuesday to tell the longshoremen to return to work, but he was told that the workers "would not return without a court order." He then issued the temporary restraining order and set the hearing on a permanent injunction.

West Coast longshoremen, members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, say they will load Soviet grain.

The ILA work stoppage was criticized by government and farm leaders.

President Ford said in Minneapolis Tuesday, "I think it's in the best interests of the American consumer and I think it's in the best interests of the labor movement to permit the shipment of this wonderful commodity that we produce."

Ford said he hoped it would be possible to find a way to ship grain which has already been contracted for by the Soviet Union, as well as that which might be purchased in

In New Orleans, the nation's leading export grain shipping center, port director Edward Reed said, "You could have one hell of a mess with the grain piling up."

Beirut paper reports

Egypt, Israel agree on disengagement

By The Associated Press

Egypt and Israel have agreed on a new disengagement agreement for the Sinai Desert following a pledge from President Ford to work for a similar accord between Syria and Israel by the end of 1975, a pro-Egyptian Beirut newspaper reported today.

As Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger prepared to leave Washington tonight on another Egyptian-Israeli shuttle, senior Israeli politician Yitzhak Navon said the United States had agreed to provide Israel about $2 billion in aid, to resume arms sales and to guarantee replacement of the oil supplies that Israel will lose by returning the Abu Rudeis and Balain oil fields to Egypt.

At the same time, Israeli troops surrounded three Arab guerrillas in a wood near the border kibbutz of Hanita and killed them in a 30-minute battle, witnesses reported. One Israeli soldier was reported wounded. There was speculation the guerrillas were infiltrating Israel with the intention of making trouble during Kissinger's visit.

Opposition to Kissinger's new mediation effort was also growing among Israelis, and government security experts were mobilizing for angier-than-ever demonstrations against the secretary of state. A popular Israeli hero of the 1973 Mideast War, Reserve Maj. Assa Kadmouni, returned the nation's highest military medal to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to protest the latest peace proposal.

Kadmouni, one of only eight recipients of the yellow-ribboned Medal of Valor, sent it back to Rabin with a letter criticizing the "government's surrender to external dictates."

Chasing boll weevils

Richard Alsup of Alsup Bros. Flying Service at Dexter comes in low over Highway 60 to dust for boll weevils on a cotton field belonging to L & L Farms six miles east of Dexter. Harold Lumsden and his brother Stan, who farm the land, had inspected their field containing 57 acres of cotton last week and found no evidence of boll weevil damage, but upon reinspecting it Monday morning, the Lumsdens found that weevils were eating the top squares. Harold Lumsden said that they "would be lucky to get a bale per acre yield now." He added that without the weevil damage, "we would have gotten about a bale and a half." (Daily Standard photo)

Bluff, Cape men killed

A Poplar Bluff man and Cape Girardeau man were killed and six persons were injured -- two critically – in five area accidents, Tuesday and early today, the highway patrol reported today.

The deaths raised the toll on Southeast Missouri roads this year to 64, compared with 70 at the time last year.

Jack Allen, 36, of Poplar Bluff Route Two was killed at 9:50 a.m. Tuesday, 10 miles south of Poplar Bluff on Highway 53 when the southbound two-ton truck he was driving ran off the road and overturned three times.

Allen was pronounced dead at the scene. The body was taken to Cotrell Funeral Home in Poplar Bluff.

Peter Mitchell Phelps, 22, of Cape Girardeau was killed and three persons were injured in a single-vehicle accident at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday on Route Y six miles east of Jackson.

The accident occurred when a westbound station wagon driven by Phelps ran off the road on a curve, struck a culvert and was airborne before landing on its top. All of the occupants were thrown from the car except Raymond Lee Johnson, 19, of Cape Girardeau, who received minor injuries.

Critically injured were Linda Faye Tidwell, 15, and Steven Eugene Boren, 23, of Cape Girardeau. All injury victims were taken to St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Phelps' body was taken to Walter's Funeral Home at Cape Girardeau.

A Neelyville man received moderate injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday four miles east of Hornersville on Highway 164.

Scott City accepts Sikeston firm's bid

SCOTT CITY — The City Council accepted a bid for $36,690 from Mechanical Systems of Sikeston Tuesday night for construction of a new water treatment plant after Bill Fowler, a representative of the firm, reported an 18,000 - gallon tank had been located that could be delivered within 10 days.

Previously, delivery of a tank had been estimated to take five months.

Fowler said the tank that had been found is 8,000 gallons larger than the size that had been figured but stated that this would not change his firm's bid. He also said his company would negotiate on the four-inch valves the city has, which would reduce the cost.

City Engineer Bob Harrison had recommended acceptance of a bid by B. W. Birk of Cape Girardeau, which was the low bid at $35,119. However, he

Puxico repeals tax

PUXICO — A one-cent city sales tax was repealed by a vote of 20 to 4 in a special election here Tuesday.

The tax had been approved by voters in April for the purpose of building a clinic to get a doctor to locate in Puxico.

The city learned about a month ago, however, that public funds could not be used to construct a clinic.

The reasoning apparently is that a clinic would benefit an individual rather than the community.

The city council decided that since the tax money cannot be used for the purpose for which it was passed, it would be unfair to collect the tax without giving citizens a chance to vote on whehter or not to keep the tax.

Mayor J. Roy Smith said Tuesday's turnout was light, compared to the April election. In that election, about 200 votes were cast, he said.

Together again

The subject was roses Tuesday when Mrs. Jamila Samaha left, 71, of Bieuret, Lebanon, and her sister, Mrs. Merym S. Shibley, 84, of New Madrid, were reunited Aug. 13 for the first time in 62 years.

Rezoning proposals protested

About 50 people turned out for the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Tuesday night, with most of the crowd there to protest various rezoning proposals being considered.

Most of the crowd was protesting a proposal from Dyer-Bussey Realtors, Inc. to establish a trailer court on land located north of Smith Street and between Second and Third streets.

The land had been previously rezoned for a proposed nursing home, but those plans fell through. Dyer-Bussey was asking for a rezoning from multiple family to planned trailer court.

The trailer court would have had lots for 18 trailers, complete with a playground and swimming pool, the proposal was withdrawn by the realtors after the opposition to proposal was voiced.

Opponents said the park would lower their property values and create traffic problems on Third Street.

Dyer-Bussey fared better on a proposal to rezone three lots located at the corner of Murray Lane and South New Madrid Street, from single family to commercial.

The rezoning was opposed by land owner Jere Cox who owns the remaining lots on the block from the Dyer-Bussey property to South Scott Street.

The commission voted to recommend rezoning of the whole block.

The commission also recommended approval of a proposal from developers of Hunter Acres West to subdivide land from the present subdivision south along North West Street to Wakefield.

The proposal which would include duplexes and apartments along the extension of David Drive, was opposed in a petition signed by property owners in the subdivision. A spokesman for the property owners said they did not approve of a commercial lot along Wakefield west of the railroad tracks or of the duplexes or apartments.

Commissioners said they felt the plan was only the extension of existing zoning and that the duplexes and commercial buildings and apartments provided a buffer zone between railroad tracks and business areas.

The commission recommended rezoning of two areas from single family to light industrial. One is about 33 acres of land located on the Robert Matthews farm west of Keystone Drive.

The commission also approved the subdivision of a one-acre site and a one-and-a-half acre site on the land next to the Cummins Diesel building.

Rezoning of two tracts of land, along Highway 61 south of Highway 60 was also recommended. The one tract is owned by Ralph Boyer, the other by Jess Halford.

The commission recommended two areas currently zoned B two- family be rezoned B two-family mobile home. The rezoning will go into effect in 30 days if approved by the City Council.

The areas recommended include most of Sunset Addition

Cooking school set

Time- saving and inflation-fighting recipes and cooking tips will be the emphasis during a free cooking school scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 11 in the Sikeston High School Field House.

The Southern Kitchens Cooking School is being sponsored by The Daily Standard in cooperation with Progressive Farmer Co. of Birmingham, Ala.

In addition to the two-hour informative cooking school, free cookbooks will be given to all who attend and lots of door prizes will be awarded by drawings.

With today's rising costs, people -- men and women -- have been forced back into the kitchen. During the cooking school, two specially trained home economists will prepare a wide variety of recipes as they promote ease and economy in home cooking.

A successful program in Southern cities, the cooking school is being offered for the first time in Missouri.

There is no charge and nothing to buy. Mark the calendar now and watch for further information on where to pick up the free tickets to be used in the drawings.

Sisters reunited after 62 years

NEW MADRID — Mrs. Merym S. Shibley, 84, was reunited last Wednesday with her youngest sister, Mrs. Jamila Samaha, 71, of Beirut, Lebanon, whom she had not seen in 62 years.

"I never dreamed I would get to see her again," exclaimed Mrs. Shibley, who said she had left Lebanon as a young bride to live in the United States following her marriage to the late Gabriel Shibley.

Mrs. Shibley has another sister and two brothers, also living in Lebanon, whom she has not seen since she left.

Mrs. Samaha flew to the United States two and a half weeks ago and has visited her son and daughter-in-law in Annandale, Va., a suburb of Washington, D.C.

The sisters have shared a lot of happiness, excitement and laughter during their visit. Mrs. Shibley said they had a little difficulty conversing at times.

Mrs. Samaha speaks Lebanese and French and Mrs. Shibley said she mixes English in with Lebanese as best as she can remember. Occasionally, the right word does not come out, but they just laugh and hug each other.

A BITING COMMENT ON LIB

Say what you will about women's liberation, it may just possibly be instrumental in reducing the incidence of bruxism.

Eh?

It's no joke. Bruxism is the unconscious habit of clenching or grinding the teeth together. It usually happens during sleep, even to denture wearers. The result is not only wear and tear on the teeth but in many cases chronic headaches that have no biological cause.

Four out of five known bruxists are women, according to Drs. William R.Cinotti and Arthur Grider, professors of prosthodontics (dental appliances) at the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. And that's where the feminist movement comes in.

"It's a matter of inner conflict," say the experts. "We're accustomed to openly aggressive behavior in men, which tends to reduce their inner conflicts, while women are expected to remain cool and composed."

Thus, they add "liberation may permit women to vent aggressive tendencies more openly and freely, and this may reduce the incidence of bruxism."

THE DECISION IS THE MESSAGE

The slogan, "Beer Drinkers Make Better Lovers," may be of questionable validity, but as long as a school permits other kinds of "messages" to be emblazoned on T-shirts, it cannot outlaw this particular one.

So ruled U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas in Cleveland in a complaint brought by several students against administrators of Perry Township, Ohio, schools. At the same time, however, the judge extended a 1970 federal court decision that bans on long hair deprived no one of his constitutional rights.

Quoting approvingly a statement by Perry School superintendent Paul E. Pfeiffer that "if you let people dress down, they act down," Judge Thomas upheld the school's prohibitions against tattered jeans, bare feet and other aspects of its dress code.

It may be a harsh truth for the heirs of the now wilted Flower Generation, but it is gradually being impressed upon them that there are limitations to informality and that they have nothing to do with freedom of expression.

To put it in blunter language,when you look like a bum, you tend to act like a bum. There may be places for bums, but society has decided that school is not one of them.

CAREERS AND THE COLLEGE GIRL

You can lead a girl to women's liberation, but you can't make her partake of it.

This is the conclusion of two researchers who studied the careers and family aspirations of 87 women students during and after their four years at a private college. Dr. Shirley Angrist, a sociologist at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, and Dr. Elizabeth Almquist, formerly of Carnegie-Mellon and now teaching at North Texas State University in Denton, have published their findings in "Careers and Contingencies: How College Women Juggle with Gender ."

As reported by Associated Press writer Susan J. Reimer, the two researchers found that during college, the women increased "somewhat" their desire to work and pursue careers. But while a growing number hoped to pursue graduate training, many others rested firm in their original family-oriented aspirations.

As the college years progressed, enthusiasm for deferred marriage and child-rearing waned. By the senior year, half of the women were going steady, engaged or already married.

Indecisiveness in career choice remained until the spring of the senior year, and after graduation, the majority of the women opted for traditional feminine fields. High school teaching was the occupation most often chosen.

The women unanimously agreed that they would work when there were no children or when the children were of school age and there was financial need. However, they rarely decided on a career for the money or status it would provide them, relying instead on their husbands' careers for those qualities.

The dominant conception among these women, say the researchers, is that life plans revolve around one's family situation. For most of them, the desire to work "is not a compelling motive."

What impact have the feminist movement and equal employment opportunities programs had on women?

"As scholars and activists, we must unfortunately reply that while the new feminism has certainly raised every woman's consciousness, it has by no means altered the lifestyles of even a minority of women," says Drs. Angrist and Almquist.

Traditional upbringing still causes women to underplay their own abilities and to strongly value family goals, they contend. Whether or not this is necessarily "unfortunate" is, of course, a matter of intense argument.

But in any event, it would seem that despite all the publicity that has attended the feminist movement, so far it has merely added a new set of pressures to those which young women have always faced.

Freud's old question still remains valid: "Woman — what does she want?"

VANILLA MEANT TROUBLE

This story is from the files of the Pontiac Division in Detroit. A fellow in Peoria bought a new Pontiac and several weeks later he took it back to the dealer to report its strange behavior.

His family had a ritual which they observed four or five times a week. After dinner, he and his kids would drive to the Rexall drug store and pick up a pint of ice cream. When he bought vanilla, the car wouldn't start, but when he bought chocolate, sherbet, or any other flavor, he had no problem. This had been going on for several weeks.

The dealer went over the car, found nothing wrong and reported the circumstances to Pontiac headquarters.

One of their engineers became so enchanted with the puzzle that he made a trip to Peoria to investigate. That evening they made another trip to the store, bought a pint of vanilla and the car wouldn't start. The next night they did the same thing but bought a pint of cherry revel and the car started right up.

The next day the engineer took the car and drove it around town stopping and starting dozens of times.

He discovered a tiny vapor lock in the fuel line. When he parked for a short period of time, the car would not start. But after a minute or two the vapor lock disappeared and the car started perfectly.

Then he visited the store again and noticed that the bin holding the vanilla ice cream was near the front of the store. It took only a few moments to pick up a carton of vanilla and be checked out. The other flavors were in a bin at the rear of the store. It took longer to buy these.

We are all guilty of misconstruing cause and effect at one time or another. It is a typically human failing.

DETENTE IN SCIENCE IS PAYING OFF

The eminently successful meeting of Apollo and Soyuz in space was the most spectacular fruit of the current era of detente. It will be a long time before U.S-Soviet scientific cooperation again produces anything as dramatic and imagination - capturing.

Yet Apollo-Soyuz represents only one of a baker's dozen of scientific and technological programs, involving some 140 different projects, which the two countries are actively engaged in.

The other 12 programs, most of which have grown out of the 1972 meeting between former President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, run the gamut from cancer research to earth-quake detection, atomic energy to transportation. Discoveries in any one of these fields could prove more meaningful to earth-bound humanity than any number of handshakes in space.

For example, a Soviet drug called florafur is being used in the treatment of cancer of the gastrointestinal tract in a hospital in Houston. In all, American and Russian medical researchers have exchanged about 120 anticancer drugs, as well as other drugs and methods for treating heart disease and arthritis.

Soviet earthquake science, said to be a decade ahead of our own, has helped U.S. geologists to forecast small earthquakes in California and New York.

In transportation, the Soviets have supplied U.S. railroads with samples of the reinforced concrete ties widely used in the U.S.S.R. instead of wooden ones. In return, the Soviets are testing the adoption of a U.S. radio microwave system for assisting aircraft landings.

Other joint endeavors include the study of ocean currents, the transmission of high-voltage electricity through supercooled cables and the exchange of air-pollution control equipment and monitoring instruments.

Detente, like true love, has not always run smooth, unfortunately.

On the one hand, Russian scientific findings, often unavailable in the West before, are now readily obtained by visiting researchers. On the other hand,"it is often much easier, politically and administratively to arrange for Soviet and American astronauts to meet in space than it is for a Soviet colleague in Moscow or Leningrad to come to work in his laboratory," says Columbia University historian Loren R. Graham.

Unlike exchanges between American scientists and their counterparts in most other countries, which proceed from the scientists themselves, U.S. Soviet projects were originally politically inspired, without any input from the scientists, and politics and bureaucracy continue to throw up obstacles.

Americans complain about the slow, red-tape-snarled decision- making of Soviet authorities, much of which stems from the fact that the U.S.S.R.'s highly centralized system leaves little discretionary power to lower-level officials. Negotiations which should be a matter of days drag on for months.

In at least one instance, however, a project had to be dropped because the Americans were unable to squeeze the necessary funds out of the Ford administration. This was to be the joint development of a futuristic train that would run suspended above the ground in a magnetic field.

Both sides, moreover, still suffer from the old cold war mentality and fear giving away technological secrets to the other. At base, both sides remain potential adversaries.

Nevertheless, compared with the situation that existed only a few years ago, the ongoing scientific co-operation between the United States and the Soviet Union has to be rated as one of the most significant developments since the end of World War II.

News items tell us, Uncle Sam,
You're spending cash in loads
To study up on mating calls
Of Guatemalan toads.

Likewise, to probe biology

You spend your money, sir, as if
The ants were in your pants.

On top of that, they say you go
On dollar-spending tears
To study social goings on
Of brown Alaskan bears.

So, why not make a study, sir,
With fatted cats in mind —
And do away with tax lcopholes
They're prone to hide behind?

Fighting All Crime Costs Americans over $16 billion a year

No civilization, no era, no nation has been – or is -- crimeless. . .But rarely through the centuries has any country been ripped off by so many operatives, thugs, killers, street marauders and crime cartels as is the U.S. today. I asked the nation's "new" Attorney General to discuss it and proffer a solution if possible. Here is his reply, written exclusively for this column:

By EDWARD H. LEVI
U.S. Attorney General

WASHINGTON -- Americans face a problem of alarming proportions today -- the prevalence of crime and our inability to deal with it effectively.

Crime has been a major problem for many years and it is growing worse. Serious reported crime rose 17 per cent last year. The 1974 total is about 200 per cent higher than 1960.

Though part of the increase may stem from more efficient crime reporting, that affords little lasting comfort in view of the crime problem's agonizing nature.

Crime takes a particularly heavy toll in urban areas, where growing numbers of people fear for both their physical safety and their property. Out of that suffering comes another threat: in desperation and confusion, frightened people are more willing to attack the very laws that protect them and nourish a free society.

Terror also draws men inward and erodes the basic trust among individuals upon which so many of our social institutions are based.

Reducing crime to a much more acceptable level must be a basic commitment to the American people. The question is how we set about to achieve our goals.

We may already know the ways to reduce crime, but perhaps we lack the will to take unpopular steps when they are required. As one starting point, I believe in the concept of deterrence.

If we are notably effective in detecting crime and arresting offenders, many potential criminals may decide against crime. Detection of crime and identification of criminals are only first steps, but everything else in criminal justice depends upon them.

For deterrence to be effective, punishment must be swift. But the nation's criminal justice system has become slow and inefficient. Innocent people get lost in its labyrinth while the guilty -- especially as they gain practice in traveling the maze -- often make their way through it with inappropriate punishment or none at all.

This does not mean the criminal justice process should become harsh or that we should close our eyes to the causes of crime. But we cannot permit criminal justice ineffectiveness to become another cause of crime.

The Justice Department assists state and local criminal justice in many ways, including a financial aid program of some $800 million annually. By comparison, states and localities spend $16 billion a year on criminal justice.

Though the Department should do more in fighting crime, one essential task is to establish a tone of absolute fairness which will have important effects on all law enforcement.

Law cannot be enforced entirely by the government. Rather, enforcement must ultimately spring from the faith of citizens, for we have essential values that would be destroyed if enforcement depended entirely on arms.

Another kind of force must operate – the willing acceptance by an overwhelming proportion of our people of the law's demands. People must believe, if not in the wisdom of a particular law, at least in the fairness and honesty of the enforcement process.

Many Americans have come to believe that law is not evenly enforced, that the law is being used not for the sake of the social good but rather for the sake of the people who created it.

This kind of cynicism is wrong, but it exists and it has serious consequences for law enforcement.

It is not the rigor of enforcement that has caused people to lose faith in their laws. Rather, it has been a failure to show in our actions as enforcers of the law an adherence to principle -- really an adherence to the ideal of justice itself. Laws exist for the common good, and they must be enforced with fairness, evenhandedness, and a proper and common concern for each individual.

It would be easier to believe that new laws, new technology, or money alone would solve crime.

It is more difficult to worry about the whole range of our official conduct, but I believe it is also more sensible.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON – The Internal Revenue Service tentatively has decided to dun Richard Nixon's former campaign committee, the once mighty Committee to Re-Elect the President (CREEP), for taxes on its improper expenditures.

The IRS has completed a preliminary audit which shows CREEP spent about $3 million for nonpolitical and illegal purposes. The tax debt and interest on this would come to $1.6 million.

Under the law, political candidates must pay taxes on any campaign contributions that they divert to their private use. The law isn't clear, however, whether campaign committees are also liable.

In this case, none of the misused money went into Nixon's personal pocket. The IRS, nevertheless, feltsomeone should pay taxes on the misspent contributions.

This left two possibilities: the IRS could collect the taxes from CREEP it self or from the two CREEP officials, John Mitchell and Maurice Stans, who authorized the improper spending.

The IRS has chosen to seek the money from CREEP, which was taken over in 1974 by the Campaign Liquidation Trust. The trustees inherited $3.5 million left over from the campaign.

They have drained off money to pay campaign debts and legal bills. They have also settled for $775,000 a Watergate lawsuit brought by the Democratic National Committee.

This has reduced CREEP's assets to $1,575,394 – just about the exact figure that the IRS wants to collect in taxes. But unhappily for the trustees, they haven't yet resolved a $5 million lawsuit brought by Watergate victim Spencer Oliver.

Sources close to the negotiations say the trustees are willing to offer a $200,000 settlement. But their attorneys have now cautioned against dispersing any more funds.

If the courts uphold the $1.6 million tax liability, this could put the trustees in jeopardy. A $200,000 payout to Oliver, for example, would leave them only $1,375,394 in CREEP money. This would not be enough to meet the tax obligation, and the trustees might be hit up for the difference.

The outcome of this case could have a profound effect on political expenditures. Campaign committees would have to consider each expenditure carefully to make sure it is strictly legitimate. Otherwise, the committee may get a tax bill from the IRS.

Footnote: Our information came from sources wholly familiar with the facts. We also sought formal comment from the three CREEP trustees and their attorneys. Except for one trustee who had only general knowledge of the IRS investigation, all the others were vacationing and couldn't be reached. An IRS spokesman told us no comment is ever given on audits, investigations or examinations.

SOVIET WHEAT DEAL: The U.S. has asked the Soviets for advance notification before they make future grain purchases on the U.S. market.

This advance information is necessary, the U.S. explained, to prevent market dislocations. Many farmers are known to be holding back grain from the market, for example, in anticipation of additional sales to Russia.

The Agriculture Department is eager to find out exactly how much grain the Soviets intend to purchase. They already made deals for 9.8 million tons.

Meanwhile, a temporary hold has been placed on sales to Russia until the department can reassess the U.S. crop. This is not expected to cause a hardship for the Soviets who can unload only two million tons of grain per month anyway.

The best estimate is that the Soviets won't buy as much grain as the farmers are withholding. This will force them to unload their grain at lower prices -- bad news for the farmers but good news for the consumers.

Another Pentagon bigwig, Assistant Air Force Secretary William Woodruff, has joined Hughes Aviation as a vice president. Earlier in his career, he helped hold down defense spending as a Senate Appropriations Committee staff member. Now he will be trying increase defense spending ... Nebraska Senator Carl Curtis' wife, Mildred, has been serving quietly on the National Advisory Council on Educational Professions Development. Her efforts have been largely worthless to the taxpayers, but not to her. She has collected $500 in honorariums for attending meetings ...

An unpublished study by the conservative Americans for Constitutional Action shows that unions put $996,951 into the 47 congressional districts they targeted in 1974. This helped to elect 21 pro-labor Congressmen.

Dexter man honored for aiding police

DEXTER — David Davis, 808 N. Catalpa St., has been recognized by the city for coming to the aid of a policeman during an incident Friday night.

"On behalf of the city, I wish to express our appreciation for the assistance you gave Night Chief Ralph Clark the other evening," Mayor Willis Conner said in a letter to Davis. "If more of our citizens would assist our law enforcement officials in time of need, I am sure it would be a safer community to reside in and raise our families.

Davis reportedly came to the aid of Clark Friday night after the officer was called to stop a family disturbance at 914 N. Sassafrass.

When Clark attempted to arrest Tom Frederick of Dexter, Frederick resisted arrest and Clark received minor injuries during a scuffle between the two men.

Police said Clark was not seriously hurt and was on duty the following night as usual.

Davis reportedly helped catch Frederick after he almost escaped from officers.

Police were vague in their reports of the incident this week and did not mention Davis's role in the arrest.

Conner said the only way he learned about it was when Clark told him he was appreciative of the assistance he received.

The letter was written, Conner said, "Because I feel when a man does something for his town, the least we can do is show our appreciation. For a citizen to go out of his way is unusual. So many people just ignore things like that. They don't want to be bothered and that is the trouble."

Frederick is now being held in the Stoddard County jail on a parole violation.

Thefts reported

Thefts of a wallet from a purse, change from vending machines and an automobile were reported today by police.

Audrey Jean Pellum of Flint, Mich.., told police that a wallet containing $80 was taken from her purse about 4 p.m. Tuesday while she was shopping at Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Fred Harris of Benton Route One reported a break-in at Harris Cafe, 1408 Osage St., between 11:30 p.m. Tuesday and 1:30 a.m. today.

An undetermined amount of change was taken from a cigarette machine and a pinball machine, and the thieves unsuccessfully attempted to break into a pool table and jukebox. The building was entered through a large window fan.

An automobile was stolen sometime after 1 a.m. Tuesday from Linda Smith, 209 W. Gladys St. The car was parked at her apartment when the theft occurred.

Stolen car destroyed

NEW MADRID — A 1973 model car owned by Ray Brewer of Pine Lawn, which had been reported stolen Sunday, was discovered east of town Tuesday at Conran Dike Hole by H. H. Townsend Jr. and Louis W. Meier, while fishing.

The car had been destroyed by fire.

Bismarck is the capital of North Dakota, which became the 39th state in 1899.

Ashcroft praises governor

NEW MADRID — John D. Ashcroft, former Missouri state auditor and presently assistant attorney general, told New Madrid County Republicans Tuesday night that 1976 will be a year of tremendous opportunity for all Republicans in Missouri.

Ashcroft praised the fiscal courage of Gov. Christopher S. "Kit" Bond and called attention to the current financial crisis in New York.

"Kit Bond has stood up to the Democrats and their spendthrift programs which would lead Missouri down the road to bankruptcy as in New York. We should be proud of this stand that he has taken for Missouri," Ashcroft said.

In addressing the New Madrid County Republican Club's fifth annual Lincoln Day dinner, Ashcroft said that minorities have always done a great job in American and "as Republicans in Missouri we have a great minority to be a part of. A committed minority soon makes itself a majority."

Clair Ellsberry, executive director of the Missouri Republican Party, explained the important role of the state headquarters staff. He challenged the group to start working now toward doing the necessary tasks to make 1976 a year of GOP victory.

Tim O'Herin, treasurer of the Republican Club in New Madrid County, was master of ceremonies for the program. He introduced Charles Spitler, county chairman who urged those present to get acquainted so that Republicans in New Madrid County might be united in 1976.

Farm broadcaster is guest speaker

Derry Brownfield

Derry Brownfield of Centertown will be the guest speaker for the Sikeston Production Credit Association Annual Meeting, Thursday at the Sikeston High School band shell at 7 p.m.

Brownfield has been a broadcaster for several years, but it was not until January of 1974 that he started the highly successful Delta Net, giving up-to-the-minute market price information for crops marketed here in Southeast Missouri. He is heard daily, beginning at 6:06 a.m. over KMPL, Sikeston; KWOC, Poplar Bluff; KGMO, Cape Girardeau; and KBOA, Kennett.

"No farmer ever made money growing crops or livestock, he only makes his money the day he sells, and that is what the Southeast Missouri farmer needs, Brownfield says. Brownfield speaks as a farmer, to the farmer, for the farmer, from the farm. Farmers in Southeast Missouri have grown accustomed to the familiar sign-off, "Reporting Agriculture, I'm Derry Brownfield."

Brownfield began his career in 1949 while still in high school. He attended the College of Agriculture at University of Missuri, where he received his B.S. and M.S. degrees. He taught vocational agriculture several years before going to work with the marketing division of the Missouri Department of Agriculture. He served as director of the Kansas City Livestock Market Foundation at the Kansas City Stockyards. During his entire career he has continued to farm near Centertown.

Farmers say they like information, and they like someone like Brownfield to "tell it like it is." Admittedly, he doesn't hesitate to verbally disagree with the secretary of agriculture, senators, congressmen, or anyone else, when he believes that person is not acting in the best interest of the farmer.

Play option game

NEW YORK — "You put down $500. You get back $1,600.

You put down $250. You get back $1,100.

You put down $100. You lose it all.

It's not roulette, and it's not the races. It's not a card game, either. It's a new game sweeping the country, and it's called The Option Game."

That's the opening passage of a new book by Kenneth B. Platnick, a veteran business writer and former communications specialist with the American Stock Exchange.

Naturally enough, the book is called "The Option Game". It is the first book of its kind to discuss both the standard option market and the auction markets conducted by the Chicago Board Options Exchange and the American Stock Exchange.

An option gives the buyer the right, or option, to purchase or sell a particular stock at a particular price.

If, for example, the stock is selling at $20 a share, the buyer of a "call" option might pay $200 for the right to purchase 100 shares of the stock at $20. Should the stock rise to $30, the buyer exercises his option -- that is, buys the stock at $20 and sells immediately at $30 for a gain of $20. That's $1,000 profit on 100 shares of stock.

All this at a cost of $200 to buy the option in the first place.

The idea of options goes back centuries. But the market has recently generated tremendous excitement among large numbers of investors. Today, exchange trading of listed options may involve the equivalent of eight or 10 million shares of stock daily -- nearly half the volume of shares traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Indeed, a top spokesman of the American Stock Exchange is quoted in "The Option Game" as saying: "This could end up being bigger than the stock market itself. It could be a whole new market!"

"The Option Game" is written in clear, lucid prose for the average intelligent investor seeking new ways to maximize gains and limit risks. It provides a fundamental knowledge of the option markets for brokerage firm representatives and their customers.

,oreover, the book offers market strategies for the use of options by all types of investors -- from the limited-risk speculater to the most conservative individuals and institutions.

Dozens of tables and charts amply illustrate real and hypothetical transactions.

"The Option Game" is available in both hardcover and paperback from bookstores or directly through the publisher: CommuniConcepts Inc., 119 W. 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Curp is awarded

Richard J. Curp, Highway 61 South, has been named District Sales Manager of the Year by MFA Oil Co. Curp, who has been with MFA Oil since 1944, has served in several capacities, both in Missouri and in the company's Mid-South offices in Memphis, Tenn. His most recent appointment as district sales manager in the Southeast Missouri area came on Jan. 1, 1974.

The award was based on overall performance of his district during the past year. It was presented by R. A. Young, executive vice president of MFA Oil, at the company awards banquet. The banquet was held recently in Boston, Mass., where MFA Oil Co. award winners and their wives traveled for the company's annual incentive trip.

Florists attend convention

DEXTER — Jack and Norma Jackson, operators of Jackson Florist in Dexter, attended the 1975 convention of Florists' Transworld Delivery Association Aug. 2-7 at Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Jackson is district chairman of Illinois and Missouri members of the association.

Highlights of the convention included the FTD annual members meeting, at which association business was transacted and new national officers were elected.

Florists' Transworld Delivery Association is a co-operative association, owned and operated by over 14,000 retail florist members in North and South America. Through the FTD service, and the service of its international affiliate, Interflora, flowers by wire can be sent practically anywhere in the world.

NITTANY DEFENDERS

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State possibly can lay claim to having the most linebackers in action in the National Football League. In 1974, 10 former Nittany Lions were defensemen in the NFL.

They were Ralph Baker, Doug Allen, Bruce Bannon, John Ebersole, Jack Ham, Tom Hull, Jim Laslavic, Ed O'Neil, Dave Robinson and John Skorupan.

The stock market

Pain and pleasure

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"Sweet is Pleasure after Pain."

...Dryden

"One of these days we're going to get a good rally."

Kansas City, Memphis and St. Louis stockbrokers can make this prediction with relative safety.

And the traders who haunt their board rooms concur. The market appears to be entering an oversold state, they note.

More inflation and higher interest rates have taken their toll, but many stocks are descending again to what are believed to be bargain levels, these professionals assert.

Moreover, there's some good news emerging. The business and industrial recovery is moving a bit faster; and our international balances of payments ledger is improving, with the headlines shouting a $1.23 billion surplus for the second quarter (not as great as the $2.95 billion surplus for the first quarter, but the first back-to-back surplus since 1960).

And, as always, there are equities cast aside by the impatient and greedy, which upon penetrating scrutiny appear to be underpriced.

One such equity could be R. P. Scherer Co., a world leader in the production of capsules for pharmaceuticals and also a manufacturer of surgical instruments and hair grooming products.

For holders of the common stock of R. P. Scherer, the most recent quarterly report, however did not make good reading.

Though sales moved up to $29,919,000 from $28,824,000 in the quarter ended last June 30, net earnings declined to $2,115,000 -- 21 cents a share — from $2,816,000 --- 28 cents per share — for the prior comparable quarter, an easement of 24 per cent.

Even worse for the stockholders, the shares declined from 13¾ bid on the counter market a couple months ago to the 8-9 range, which incidentally is the low for the recent past. High last year was 25½; and in 1973. the stock topped out at 40.

R.P. Scherer, as noted previously, is a cash rich company reported by Standard & Poor's as of March 31, 1974, as having no long term debt, and cash or equivalent of $8.46 million (your SEC-registered analyst can obtain latest balance sheet figures).

As noted in its most recent quarterly report, R.P. Scherer Jr., president and chairman, attributed the profit decline in part to lower Vitamin E sales. However, Scherer is optimistic about the future, as are a number of SEC-registered analysts in St. Louis.

Medically oriented stocks, they believe, are due for a high-flying future -- once the economy starts rolling.

Another so-called "sleeper" mentioned here before is Kellwood Co. of St. Louis, a firm with 80.2 per cent of its $383,560,000 volume during fiscal 1975 (ended last April 30) going to Sears Roebuck & Co. Kellwood is the prime resource of Sears for soft goods.

The stock seeling at a badly depressed $10 per share, topped out at 48¾ a few years ago and sold as high as 24¼ during 1973 and 14⅞ last year.

St. Louis SEC-registered equity analysts do not look for a fast run-up for Kellwood, even though earnings improvement may rise dramatically. They see genuine encouragement in recent comments of Fred W. Wenzel, chairman and president.

Sales and earnings have been "a lot better than I thought they were going to be 30 days ago," Wenzel told stockholders at the annual meeting the other day.

The month of May, said Wenzel, continued to register a loss, as did the two previous quarers, but June showed improvement and July was "excellent."

Byron White, one-time football star and later deputy attorney general, was named an associate justice of the Supreme Court by President John Kennedy on March 30, 1962, to take the place of retiring Justice Evans Whittaker of Missouri.

Red potatoes also plummeted in price for the second straight week as the new crop continued to hit the market, the survey of 50 grocery stores throughout the state showed.

Tiny potatoes have their uses at home

COLUMBIA — After digging those potatoes, homemakers sometimes wonder what to do with tiny potatoes left over. Mildred Bradsher, food and nutrition specialist at the University of Missouri suggests freezing them.

Wash, peel and cut potatoes into the desired pieces -- sliced, shredded, diced or in strips for French fries. Blanch in boiling water for two minutes or steam for three minutes. Chill potatoes in cold running water for about three minutes. Drain, package and freeze.

To use the potatoes, complete the cooking process without thawing them. Use as you would fresh, raw potatoes.

For other ideas about freezing potatoes, check the home economics guide, "Freezing Potatoes at Home", No. 1510 at your University Extension Office in Benton.

Ann Landers

One small businessman feels financial squeeze

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to ask the American people a few questions. It's a matter of economic survival to me as well as millions of other "little people" who have small stores.

Who do you ask to cash your checks? Who do you ask for credit when things are tight? Who do you ask to take ads for your organizations, yearbooks and programs? Who do you ask for contributions for your church suppers, raffles, etc? Who do you call after hours when you need a special item? Who do you ask to put up your posters for special events?

It's your local, hometown small businessman. After all, he's your friend, your neighbor.

But when you want to make a purchase, how often do you drive past his place of business and go to a giant store thinking you might save a few cents, without giving your local merchant a chance or even comparing his prices?

We are competitive with the biggest stores price-wise and our services are often better. But we can't survive much longer. When we go, you'll miss us. -- Too Many To Name

Dear Too Many: Your letter reflects one of the major social and economic problems of our times. It's becoming more and more difficult for the small, independent businessman to survive. I wish I knew the answer.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 5-11 and my husband is 6-4. We have been married for five years and would love to have a child. The problem: We are both terrified that he (or she) would be abnormally tall.

Both of us suffered horrible ridicule because we were the tallest in our classes. We'd hate to bring a child into the world who stands a good chance of going through the same agony. We can't imagine the emotional burden. Please advise. – The Giraffes

Dear G's: I don't need to "imagine" the burden. My twin sister and I HAD the burden. We were the shortest ones in our class from kindergarten on. But it didn't bother us in the least -- it just motivated us to try to be "tall" in other ways.

My advice is go ahead and have a child. He (or she) might inherit the genes of your Uncle Elmer or Aunt Hilda who were the runts of the litter. One cannever predict the outcome in the game of genetic roulette.

Dear Ann Landers: I read that letter from the gentleman who wears a panty girdle because he claims his doctor recommended it for his back problems.

I see no reason why men shouldn't wear any kind of undergarments they wish -- even with lace on them if theywant to. But I hope you'll let them know if it's only back support they want, they can order specially designed elastic binders through almost any mail order house, or surgical supply or drug store.

These binders are a lot less confining than a panty-girdle and thousands of men attest totheir effectiveness.

Give 'em the word, Ann. -I.B. Of Plainville, Mass.

Dear I.B.: Thanks for writing. I have a hunch some of these guys are going to keep right on wearing the lace, but for those who don't want to, thanks for the alternative.

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers new booklet, "High School Sex and How To Deal With It – A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." Send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rudisill of Matthews and the b ridegroom is the son of Mrs. June Burnett, 208 Smith St., Sikeston and the late Ray Burnett.

The bride wore a white satin gown overlaid with lace and styled with an empire waistline and long, lacy sleeves. She carried a bouquet of baby blue, pink, yellow and green carnations accented with baby's breath.

Doug Ruff of Charleston was best man and groomsmen were Mike Burnett of Sikeston, brother of the bridegroom; Wayne Rudisill of Matthews, brother of the bride; and Bill Ruff of Charleston. Usher was Elbert Ruff of Miner.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shelby.

Synthetic vitamin types can be equally effective

The difference between natural and synthetic vitamins is presumably "natural" is meant to imply that the vitamins are obtained from natural sources instead of being synthesized by chemical means, Dr. James W. Nordstrom, nutrition extension specialist at Lincoln University at Jefferson City, says. However, natural and synthetic vitamins can be identical in structure and therefore no one can tell them apart. Both are equally effective regardless of their origin.

Frequently vitamins sold as being from a natural source have been "enriched" by adding synthetic vitamins. For example "Rose Hips Vitamin C" may contain only 50 per cent natural Vitamin C. Similarly, B vitamins labeled as being from yeast and other natural sources may actually be mostly of synthetic origin.

Consumers need to be aware that "natural" and "organic" are not legal definitions. Manufacturers and merchants therefore are not regulated by strict laws in the ways they use the terms. In fact, these words are largely meaningless when applied to foods or food supplements. Products labeled in this way are not likely to be chemically unique or to have superior nutritional qualities.

Cystic fibrosis campaign leadership is announced

Mrs. Grady L. Etheridge has been named chairwoman in the Miner area and Mrs. Eula Fay Stroud has been selected chairwoman in the Morehouse area for the 1975 Breath of Life Campaign of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

As chairwomen, Mrs. Etheridge and Mrs. Stroud will lead volunteers in raising funds to support research, care and education programs benefitting children who suffer from lung-damaging diseases.

The announcement of their selection as campaign leaders was made by Jack Buck, chairman of the Gateway Chapter in St. Louis.

The campaign will begin with a door-to-door drive scheduled for September.

Among the programs of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is support for over 100 cystic fibrosis centers across the nation. The centers provide diagnosis, treatment and referral to children who have these lung-damaging diseases as well as those who suffer from gastrointestinal disorders related to cystic fibrosis.

The foundation also also funds research to find a cure and control for cystic fibrosis, the most serious of these lung-damaging diseases, and to develop better treatments for children suffering from all lung disorders.

Cystic fibrosis, the No. 1 genetic killer of children, affects one out of every 1,500 babies born each year and occurs when a child inherits two genes for the disease, one from each parent.

Chaffee club sponsors dance for charity

CHAFFEE — The Chaffee Jaycees will sponsor a dance from 8 p.m. until midnight Saturday at the old Chaffee High School gymnasium in an effort to raise funds for the Paducah, Ky., telethon for cerebral palsy.

The dance will feature David R. Lunde and the Manassas Sound System. Chairman of the project is Rick Cobb, a director of the club.

Jaycees are hoping to reach a goal of $1,000 by the time the money is to be turned over to the telethon in November. A total of $423 is now needed to reach the goal.

The money sent in will be returned to the Chaffee area to assist local victims of cerebral palsy.

Scout executive attends institute

MENDHAM, N.J. — David Corti of Sikeston, Mo., district scout executive of Okeechobee Boy Scout District, attended the National Executive Institute in Mendham, N.J., from July 7 to July 31.

The National Executive Institute is a 24 day intensified training course for all new scout executives throughout our country. About 15 times a year 30 to 35 new scout executives gather at Schiff Scout Reservation near Mendham to participate in this course.

Scout executives usually have had two to four months of practical experience in a district before attending. The course is staffed by five full-time professional scout executives and eight men on a part-time basis from the national scout staff whose offices are located in nearby North Brunswick, N. J.

Courses include high specialized skills of management of people. Also included are other personal skills such as Communication, speech making, and time management. These skills are attained through the classroom teaching technique as well as more practically through role playing activities.

Added this year to the program was an overnight experience. This was designed to guide participants into a better understanding of the scouting program under conditions which every scout within scouting works.

The national executive coordinator was J. R. Lewis, who holds the dual role of national director of training for Boy Scouts of America. He coordinates a three-phase training program, of which this course is only phase one.

Phase two and three come at about two-year intervals for each scout executive. The phases are designed to develop specific areas of weakness in a scout executive's ability.

A lion in the den

Neil, a trained lion out of work because of a nasty disposition, was reclaimed by trainer Ron Oxley, who was determined that a warmer personal relationship would solve the problem. Today they share a house with five of Oxley's other pets, including Bruno, the bear, who stays outdoors (lower left). Since Neil gets plenty of daily exercise on movie sets, he's perfectly happy to come home, lie on the rug and sleep.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

And I will give power to my two witnesses to prophesy 1,260 days clothed in sackcloth." These two prophets are the two olive trees, and two candlesticks standing before the God of all the earth. Anyone trying to harm them will be killed by bursts of fire shooting from their mouths. They have power to shut the skies so that no rain will fall during the three and a half years they prophesy, and to turn rivers and oceans to blood, and to send every kind of plague upon the earth as often as they wish.

He sat on apicnic table under a shelter in the park, with sliced watermelon behind him, accompanying himself on a guitar.

McGlothen stops Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have been set on their heels by Lynn McGlothen's fast balls and have at least one commiserator.

"He was pitching the inside corner, he was pitching the outside corner," McGlothen's battery mate, St. Louis Cardinals catcher Ted Simmons, said Tuesday night.

"It's kind of hard to guess where it's going to be," added Simmons, who was on the receiving end of 10 McGlothen strikeout pitches, including seven at which the Reds failed to offer in a 2-1 Cards win.

"No one was caught looking at the curve except (Merv) Rettenmund," the Cards catcher noted. "I can't see where he could have thrown any better. He's thrown as hard but not with that much control."

McGlothen boosted his record to 13-9 with a four-hitter as he stopped a string of Cincinnati victories at nine.

Pete Rose opened for the Reds with a double over the third base bag and Ken Griffey beat out a bunt.

Joe Morgan rammed a high delivery to deep center field for a sacrifice fly scoring the Cincinnati run, then McGlothen slammed the door beginning with a strikeout of Johnny Bench.

"Here in St. Louis it's probably the best I've pitched," acknowledged McGlothen, a right-hander who delivered 115 pitches and walked only Morgan.

"I had perfect control," he said. "I had them hitting my pitch. With these guys, I had to."

A mound duel in which McGlothen bested Gary Nolan, 11-7, was decided only a half-inning after Cincinnati scored.

Bake McBride slammed a single up the middle with one out and moved to third on Willie Davis' double. Nolan had scarcely recovered from the blows when Simmons singled to score McBride and afterward Ted Sizemore snapped the tie with the Cards' fourth hit.

McGlothen hurled hitless ball after the third and was tagged hard only by Bench's long drive to left for the second out in the ninth inning.

Davis helps

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Like a cat with nine lives, baseball's Willie Davis has bounced back again to land on his nimble feet.

The 35-year-old Davis, a spark in an August drive by the St. Louis Cardinals, Tuesday settled a dispute with his former wife over finances and rejoined the National League club.

"She's satisfied and I'm satisfied," said Davis, who served a self-imposed period of five games on the disqualified list during a squabble over alimony.

"What happened were problems that happen to people every day," he added. "It's not the problems that are important. It's what happens immediately after. I'd say everything came off pretty well."

Davis, who was hitting .308 for the Cards prior to leaving the club last Friday in Atlanta, was reinstalled immediately at his right field position.

He celebrated his return with a triple, double and two singles in a 2-1 Cards victory over the Cincinnati Reds and afterward admitted, "I felt like I was reborn."

"I don't like this kind of thing happening but it did," said Davis, whose problems were worked out with the aid of Cardinal attorneys.

McGlothen stops Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have been set on their heels by Lynn McGlothen's fast balls and have at least one commiserator.

"He was pitching the inside corner, he was pitching the outside corner," McGlothen's battery mate, St. Louis Cardinals catcher Ted Simmons, said Tuesday night.

"It's kind of hard to guess where it's going to be," added Simmons, who was on the receiving end of 10 McGlothen strikeout pitches, including seven at which the Reds failed to offer in a 2-1 Cards win.

"No one was caught looking at the curve except (Merv) Rettenmund," the Cards catcher noted. "I can't see where he could have thrown any better. He's thrown as hard but not with that much control."

McGlothen boosted his record to 13-9 with a four-hitter as he stopped a string of Cincinnati victories at nine.

Pete Rose opened for the Reds with a double over the third base bag and Ken Griffey beat out a bunt.

Joe Morgan rammed a high delivery to deep center field for a sacrifice fly scoring the Cincinnati run, then McGlothen slammed the door beginning with a strikeout of Johnny Bench.

"Here in St. Louis it's probably the best I've pitched," acknowledged McGlothen, a right-hander who delivered 115 pitches and walked only Morgan.

"I had perfect control," he said. "I had them hitting my pitch. With these guys, I had to."

A mound duel in which McGlothen bested Gary Nolan, 11-7, was decided only a half-inning after Cincinnati scored.

Bake McBride slammed a single up the middle with one out and moved to third on Willie Davis' double. Nolan had scarcely recovered from the blows when Simmons singled to score McBride and afterward Ted Sizemore snapped the tie with the Cards' fourth hit.

McGlothen hurled hitless ball after the third and was tagged hard only by Bench's long drive to left for the second out in the ninth inning.

Sikeston's IGA all-stars placed third in the women's softball invitational held at Puckett field recently. Big Red face Bears next CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — The St. Louis Football Cardinals move their preseason activity to the University of Illinois' Memorial Stadium here Saturday to take on their old rivals -- the Chicago Bears. Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. (CDT) in the first game to be played on the stadium's new artificial turf.

Both teams will take 1-1 records into the game after dropping preseason decisions last week. The Cardinals, after opening with a 10-3 victory at Kansas City, were defeated by the New York Jets last Saturday night, 14-13, before 41,265 fans at Busch Memorial Stadium in the team's home opener.

The Bears, under new coach Jack Pardee, were defeated by the Green Bay Packers, 13-9 at Green Bay, after opening the season with a 22-0 victory at San Diego.

The meeting will be the first of two this year, with the Cardinal and Bears squaring off in Chicago's Soldier Field on December 14. In regular season competition, the Bears hold a commanding 50-21-6 series lead over the Cardinals.

Against the Jets, the Big Red jumped to a 13-0 first quarter lead but it was not enough. The first Cardinal touchdown was a 15-play, 74-yard drive engineered by quarterback Jim Hart that consumed the game's first six minutes and 28 seconds. The drive culminated on a three-yard touchdown pass from Hart to running back Jim Otis.

The second score was recorded less than two minutes later when cornerback Norm Thompson intercepted an errant pass by the Jets' Al Woodall and raced 49 yards into the end zone. Jim Bakken's PAT try was blocked, and the Cardinals led 13-0.

The Jets moved to 13-7 at halftime on a 31-yard pass reception and run by running back Bob Gresham. Then with 1:56 to play in the game, Gresham scored again -- this time on a one-yard run -- and Bobby Howfield's extra point gave the victory to New York.

Hart, along with Otis and running back Terry Metcalf, played only the first quarter, with backups Gary Keithley and Dennis Shaw dividing the rest of the quarterbacking duties. Hart completed three of six passes for 29 yards in his brief duty.

Rookie running back Jerry Latin, the Big Red's 11th- round draft choice, led the team in rushing for the second consecutive game, gaining 39 yards in 11 carries and earning plaudits from head coach Don Coryell.

The Cardinals' coach, however, added: "Offensively we didn't play well. On the first drive, we had good ball control, but after that we were not consistent. We are doing as well as we should, but some of our top offensive people haven't played that much."

Following the Bears' game, the Cardinals will return to St. Louis to entertain the San Diego Chargers on Saturday, August 30 at 7:05 p.m.

Hole-in-one

Leon Gates, 16, of Matthews, placed second in the 220 yard race and third in 50 yard dash.

Sylvester Dorsey, 18, of Lilbourn, won first place in the soft ball throw and third in the 50 yard dash.

Curtis Washington, 19, of Lilbourn was first in the 220 and first in the 50 yard dash.

SAINTS PREVAIL

The grudge match was a long time coming, and when the opportunity arose for the Sikeston Saints they found themselves shorthanded. But, the home team came away with the revenge they wanted by beating the only Sikeston based squad to upset them, the Stags, 6-5.

The winning run scored on a wild pitch in the bottom of the last inning with the bases loaded and two out. The Stags had had the same bases loaded situation with one out earlier, but the Saints managed to wiggle out of it.

With Jeff Jackson and Kenny Urhahn out of action, Les Schatzley toed the rubber for the second time since he graduated four years ago. Schatzley allowed seven hits and fanned seven before John Leible relieved him in the sixth. Leible, who got the win, was pitching for the first time this year.

Rick Eisenbach led the Saints attack with two hits. Tom Masterson and Leible belted doubles. Shortstop Amon Ring led the Stags with three hits, as the losers outhit the Saints 8-7. The losing pitcher was Rich Taylor. He had been the one to shut down the Saints back in June on a two-hitter.

RACES

Three 1975 IHRA championis, headed by Raymond Beadle in the famed "Blue Max" Funny Car, have filed entry for the Winston-IHRA Gateway Natinals Title Series at the St. Louis International Raceway, Aug. 22-23-24.

The other two are Dale Pulde in the California Charger and Gene Snow in the Revell Snowman.

Beadle, the Winston Challenge point leader in Funny Car, has rolled to three IHRA victories this season and will be the favorite to score his fourth victory of the season here at St. Louis.

Beadle has won every other race on the IHRA circuit since opening the season with the Winter Nationals title in Miami. After a runnerup finish to Dale Pulde in the World Nationals at Amarillo, Texas, he came back to win the Pro-Am Nationals at Rockingham. Snow then won the Spring Nationals at Bristol but Beadle roared right back to take the Summer Nationals crown at Great Lakes Dragway in Union Grove, Wisc.

Pulde, who drove Joe Mundet's Eastern Raider to victory in the World Nationals earlier this year, has switched rides and will be on hand to try and hang on to hois second place position in the point race.

Pulde will be driving the California Charger the rest of the 1975 season.

Snow, of Ft. Worth, Tex., scored the biggest victory of his career on the IHRA circuit less than two months ago when he captured the Spring Nationals at Bristol, beating out the Cho-Town Hustler. It was the first victory for the popular Snow at Bristol.

Some of the top names in drag racing are expected to join Beadle, Pulde and Snow in the Gateway Nationals to battle for a position in the 16-car field.

It will be IHRA's first venture into the St. Louis area and a top-notch field is expected to be on hand in one of the largest drag racing events presented annually in the Midwest.

The track will open at noon on Friday, Aug. 22 with time trials and qualifying set to begin at 1 p.m. and will continue until 10 p.m.

Saturday, qualifying will begin at 10 a.m. with class eliminations starting at 2 p.m.

Sunday, Aug. 24, the gates will open at 8 a.m. with time trials at 10 with final eliminations getting underway at 2 p.m.

TV critic says:

If I were in charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Were I in charge of television, I would:

—Make announcers define polyunsaturated.

—See if relatives of the late King George III want equal time on CBS' "Bicentennial Minutes."

—Tell the A. C. Nielsen Co. to put its audience meters in each of the 68.5 million homes now equipped with TV sets, and then watch what the networks do when they learn not one set is on.

—Hold a Super-Spectacular Sports Classic in which the heads of ABC Sports and CBS Sports have a potato sack race over the Continental Divide. The winner gets an autographed sneer from Jimmy Connors.

—Move the television networks to Big Sur, Calif.

—As an alternative, move me to Big Sur, Calif.

—Negotiate with Mr. Nixon for exclusive rights to David Frost's television memoirs. But emphasize there's no deal unless David publicly reveals how he coined the word, "Soopah!"

—Run "The Waltons" backward this season to leave them with unresolved crises for a change.

—Make television stations reply to their own editorials.

—Run all National Football League TV films in fast-motion, and make the announcer admit, "The tight end has been drinking."

—Define the "family hour" as the time network presidents get to sit down and pluck the leers out of "MASH."

—Ban all ads for vegetable chopper-dicer-slicer-masher-musher kitchen appliances during the Saturday afternoon horror movie, or at least bar them until Godzilla finishes eating Tokyo.

—Require large type for those tiny legal notices that appear at the bottom of TV ads for Florida land. We put a microscope on one the other day, and all it said was, "Scuba gear recommended."

—Go on vacation rightT now because the man in the white coat is closing in.

Cooking Up

By CHERIE BLANTON

Here are some recipe requests for home canning and preserving. Although I personally haven't had the opportunity to try these out, they sound real good to me.

MINT-HONEY JELLY

¾ cup boiling water
2 Tbsp. dried mint leaves
2½ cups strained honey
few drops green food coloring
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

Pour boiling water over mint in a saucepan; cover tightly and let stand 15 minutes. Strain and add enough water to make three-fourths cup. Add honey and heat to boiling. Stir in coloring to tint a light green. Add pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to a full boil; remove from heat and skim off foam. Pour into hot jars and seal.

BLACKBERRY JAM

3 cups mashed blackberries
5½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
1 cup water

Mix the berries and sugar in a bowl; let stand 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend the pectin and water in a large saucepan; bring to boil and boil one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add the berries and stir about two minutes. Ladle into clean jars, cover and let stand 24 to 48 hours or till jam is set. Store tightly covered in freezer.

CHERRY-BERRY PRESERVES

1 pound dark sweet cherries, rinsed, stemmed, pitted and halved, abut 2½ cups
1 pint strawberries, sliced, about 2 cups
3 cups sugar
½ cup water
½ cup lemon juice
¼ tsp. almond extract

Mix fruits, sugar and water in a large saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Increase heat and bring to boiling, stirring occasionally. Stir in lemon juice and extract and boil one minute longer. Remove from heat; skim off foam and put into sterilized jars.

GINGER TOMATOES

These are good as an accompaniment for meat or poultry as well as with toast.

6 pounds green tomatoes
2 pounds firm ripe tomatoes
5 pounds sugar
3 lemons, thinly sliced
3 pieces (1½-inch each) ginger root
1 tsp. whole cloves

Rinse tomatoes and cover with boiling water to loosen skins; plunge into cold water and remove skins and stem ends; quarter the small tomatoes and cut larger ones into eighths.

Combine tomatoes with sugar, lemon, cloves and ginger tied in a spice bag. Bring to boiling over medium heat. Reduce heat and cook slowly until mixture thickens, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Ladle into hot jars, remove bag.

GRAPE BUTTER

2 pounds Concord grapes
4½ cups sugar

Rinse grapes, discard stems and blemished grapes. Drain and put into a large heavy saucepot. Add sugar and mix thoroughly. Stir over medium heat until sugar is dissolved. Increase heat and cook rapidly 20 minutes, stirring often.

Remove mixture from heat and force through a coarse sieve; return pulp to saucepot and bring to boiling over high heat, stirring constantly. Boil rapidly one minute. Remove from heat, skim off foam and ladle into sterilized jars. Seal.

Rice Salad Bowl Really Different

During the hot weather season, most homemakers feel a need to add to their repertoires of refreshing salads. Here's one that will find its way into your file of favorites: an unusual rice salad created by La Choy Food Products.

TOSSED RICE BOWL SALAD
(Yield: 5-6 servings)

1½ cups cooked rice, cooled
1 can (16 oz.) La Choy bean sprouts, rinsed and drained
1 cup sliced radishes
1 cup diced unpared cucumber
1 cup sliced celery
1 green onion, chopped
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup French dressing
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
½ teaspoon La Choy soy sauce

Combine rice, bean sprouts, radishes, cucumber, celery, onion and green pepper; chill. Mix together French dressing, seasonings and soy sauce; chill. At serving time, pour dressing over vegetables. Toss lightly. Serve on crisp salad greens.

Promotion reveals they told truth

NEW YORK (AP) — For five years, Sue Cameron has been a TV critic and chronicler of broadcast industry news for the Hollywood Reporter, a trade magazine. As such, she often phones network executives.

Like others in her dodge, she knows the usual secretarial reply is, "They're tied up in a meeting now." But now she believes it.

"It's the truth," she says. "They really are always in a meeting."

Miss Cameron knows whereof she speaks. Because last week she gave up TV criticizing and chronicling to become ABC's new director of daytime program development, Los Angeles division.

The 30-year-old Los Angeles native, a USC journalism graduate with no prior experience as a broadcast executive, says the new job sort of stemmed from her daily news column about the broadcast industry.

"When I started it, I had the option of doing stupid gossip stuff," she laughed. "Or I could really write a business column where I could talk to the producers and network executives and really find out how the business was run."

She opted for the latter and found it not only a lively source of news, but also the best possible way to learn about TV, from producing to programming, from script changes to film editing.

In her work, she said, she became a friend and admirer of Fred Silverman, regarded as one of the smartest men in the business, when he was running CBS' programs division two years ago.

"Sometimes I'd fly to New York just to have lunch with him because I respected his mind so much," she said. "And he'd sit and talk about programming for hours."

She said he'd explain to her why one show might work, why women might prefer one show and men another, why a bad lead-in could hurt a show and the arts of scheduling and promoting shows.

Her conclusions: "It's like the biggest crossword puzzle or Monopoly game in the world."

She said about a year ago, Silverman offered her a job with CBS, but she turned it down, preferring to stay in Los Angeles.

Shortly after he joined ABC as its programs chief this spring, she said, she was invited by Brandon Stoddard, ABC's daytime programs development chief, to sign on as his top Los Angeles assistant.

She said it was Stoddard's idea to offer her the job. She leaped at the chance, she said, partly because she loves the field of daytime programming. There was another factor, she added.

"All these years I've been making suggestions in the column like, 'If you put this show here, I think you'll get a better share (of audience) than if you put it there'," she said.

"And for me to actually have someone say, 'Come on in and do it for real, play with the big guys,' I couldn't resist it."

Has she laid in an ample supply of executive anti-ulcer potions?

"It's funny," she mused. "Things did hit my stomach the first day. It's the most incredible pressure I've ever seen — meetings every hour on the hour, 400,000 game show ideas ."

The Prayer

"Though I walk in the midst of trouble, thou wilt revive me. . . The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me." (Psalm 138:787)

PRAYER: We praise You, O Lord, for promises fulfilled in our lives. Trouble came; so did Your comfort and guidance, assuring us of Your love. It is Your strength that enables us to win through difficulties and anxieties. Help us to trust that Your plans and purposes are being worked out to a glorious completion in our lives. Amen.

Dr. Lamb

Pregnant women need good diet

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am trying to get pregnant and would also like to lose about 10 pounds. I would like to try a diet on which I am supposed to take cider vinegar, lecithin, kelp and vitamin B-6. Would any of these be harmful to a fetus?

DEAR READER — The biggest harm to your fetus will not come from the cider vinegar, lecithin, kelp or vitamin B-6, but from the things you will need in your diet during pregnancy that you will not get.

I am opposed to anyone dieting on any regime during a pregnancy except under the careful supervision and on the advice of her doctor.

During a pregnancy you need added protein to enable the developing fetus to form the many body structures made from amino acids of protein. You need more calcium, because the baby's skeleton must be formed. You need more iron because the baby must form blood with red blood cells that contain hemoglobin made with iron.

The developing baby will take a lot of the vitamins it needs from the mother, leading to vitamin deficiency in the mother if she is not obtaining sufficient amounts.

In all I can't think of a worse time for a woman to go on a diet than during a pregnancy, unless she has a medical reason to need to do so, such as evidence of toxemia of pregnancy. You need a lot more than vitamin B-6 and lecithin to help a healthy baby develop and maintain your own health.

For more information on basic dietary requirements, write me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send a long, stamped. self-addressed envelope and 50 cents and ask for The Health Letter — number 4-6, Balanced Diet.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In your column you stated that it was common to give extra potassium to a patient taking a diuretic since loss of potassium can lead to irregularities of the heart and that is my problem, irregularity of the heart beat.

I am 65 years old and have been taking Digitoxin and a 500 mg Diuril tablet daily since 1966 for atrial fibrillation. I have never had potassium prescribed to take with the diuretic. Why not?

DEAR READER — Not everyone taking a diuretic or digitalis needs potassium. It depends on whether too much potassium is washed out of the body through the kidneys and how much potassium you get in your diet.

One Diuril tablet a day will not eliminate as much potassium and sodium as three tablets a day so that is part of the answer.

You may also have enough fruit in your diet to provide a significant amount of potassium daily.

Atrial fibrillation can be caused from many different things, including loss of potassium, an overactive thyroid, pneumonia, a heart attack, arteriosclerotic heart disease and even birth defects of the heart.

What's the law?

The case of the equalization soldier

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Homer believed in equality for women. Consequently, when Uncle Sam tapped him on the shoulder for the armed services, he decided that he couldn't be made to participate in the draft unless females were granted the same privilege. Actually, it wasn't a question of women's rights with Homer, it was a question of "what's good for the goose is good for the gander."

"A woman's sphere," he pointed out, "is what we live in. Since their voice is heard everywhere today, they should be just as draftable as men. And, since they aren't, I can't be drafted either. The military draft law is discriminatory against men and illegal."

"Nonsense!" responded a government official. " While women may be fighting for their rights, it would be unthinkable to make them fight for their country. After all, they're still basically gentle and tender little things."

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE,

would you find that the draft law, limited to male citizens, constituted unjustified sex classification?

T his is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that since there has been no showing that national security required exclusion of women from the draft or that there was any other compelling interest served by their exclusion, particularly in view of the fact that modern day warfare is highly mechanized and only 15 per cent of the country's armed forces personnel actually served in combat duty in the Viet Nam war, limiting the draft to only men was an unjustified sex classification and unconstitutional.

LORENZO GETS HIS CANTEEN BACK

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — In 1941 Lorenzo Lorenzo of Redding scratched his name on the canteen he was issued by the Army on his first day of basic training.

Lorenzo spent 37 months island-hopping in the South Pacific with the Infantry. Somehow the canteen went astray, but a few a weeks ago a friend bought the canteen in a surplus store and saw Lorenzo's name. He made sure that Lorenzo was given the canteen.

Legislators spending less money

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Missouri legislators are spending less on expenses and their constituents are enjoying it more.

Missouri House members reduced their recorded expenses by two-thirds this month following a crackdown by the state division of accounting and the result has been praise from citizens.

About $17,000 in expenses were turned in by legislators this month, compared to $48,000 sought in July, according to Gerald Yarrington of the accounting division.

State Accounting Director William J. Raftery said he and his staff have received favorable reactions from citizens for their close study of the expenses.

Steiger hopes to capture Fields

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood continues to find material for films in its own past. Movies are now being planned which will tell the stories of Valentino and Bogart and around town these days they are shooting "Gable and Lombard" and "W. C. Fields and Me."

W. C. FIELDS

ROD STEIGER as Bill Fields.

It's a continuation of the nostalgia theme which has brought hefty box office receipts to movies such as "American Grafitti," "The Summer of '42," "Bonnie and Clyde" and many more. What could be more nostalgic than a look at the greats of Hollywood's past, who were all part of the American dream.

They were shooting "W. C. Fields and Me" in and around a Pasadena mansion.

"Howja do?" said Rod Steiger, who is playing Bill Fields. He said it with Fields famous inflection. He says everything these days with Fields' famous inflection. He's the kind of actor who lives his part, for the duration of the time he's working in a film.

So, currently, he's Bill Fields when he's working and stays in character when he's not working.

The house, doubling for the home in which Fields lived with his Carlotta, who is being played by Valerie Perrine, is on Berkshire Avenue in Pasadena. Director Arthur Hiller took me around.

Hiller was bundled up in a turtle-neck sweater under his leather jacket. California can get cold in the summer and Hiller was working outside the house this day.

The house has been completely done over by the studio's set designers. Hiller wanted a special look.

"Everything is just a bit off," Hiller said. "Notice that it all doesn't quite match. Isn't it wonderful?"

The scene they were shooting, on the front porch, had Fields and Carlotta having an argument about his drinking. He accused her of watering down the gin in his Thermos, which he took to the studio every day. And she admitted that she had done it because she hated it when he got drunk.

They rehearsed the scene several times, then Steiger went to have his make-up retouched. The man who created the Fieldsian make-up was Stan Winston, the make-up genius who did that fantastic job on Cicely Tyson in "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman."

For Fields, bulbous nose and all, it takes Winston two hours to transform Steiger every morning and it takes Rod another half-hour to remove it when he's finished work.

They were ready to shoot the scene, which was heavy and dramatic. Before Hiller called for "ACTION," Steiger would pace up and down, shake his arm, fiddle with his hat. He was like a pitcher, getting ready to make a delivery.

It was long and tedious work. Many takes were required before everyone was satisfied. If Hiller liked it, Steiger didn't. If both of them were happy, Valerie Perrine was unhappy.

Producer Jay Weston, watching the work, kept marvelling over Steiger's work and his dedication.

"He's an incredible man," Weston said. "He is living this part. His wife tells me that Rod talks like Fields at home, constantly. He got into the part by listening to recordings of Fields.

"I gave him a set of records and a print of Fields' movie, 'The Bank Dick.' Out of all that, Steiger has developed two distinct voices — Fields' vaudeville voice and Fields' personal voice.

"I watched an old Fields' movie recently — and I don't think Fields is as good as Steiger. Rod is just perfect, and he's worked so hard. He spent a month on the voices before we began shooting.

"And he has an encyclopedic knowledge of Fields."

Steiger says his interest in the comedian pre-dates his casting for the film. He says he was an admirer of Fields long before the movie was ever mentioned.

"It's just a happy coincidence that I'm doing this part," he says.

He sat down on a chair on the lawn, after the scene was finally in the can. He looks, with his make-up, amazingly like Fields.

"I liked the script," he says. "They took some dramatic license, of course, but the script does show both sides of the man — he could be both very mean and very nice, when he wanted to be."

Winston came over and began retouching the make-up on Steiger's hands.

"Somebody just gave me a record of Fields and Carlotta at home," Steiger said. "I'm not sure if I should play it or not. I've developed my own idea of what Fields sounded like in his private voice, and, if I found out I was way off, it would be very upsetting. I don't think I'll play it. It would be terrible if I was wrong."

He says the part is a fascinating challenge. And he likes being challenged.

"A man should every once in a while attempt something big," he says, "and have a big dream. People who say they have never tried anything haven't really lived."

Steiger, over the years, has probably tried more big dreams than any other actor. Playing Fields is merely one more extra-large dream.

"Fields was a tragic figure," he says. "He drank himself to death. But he wasn't unique — so many great men, so many geniuses, wasted their bodies."

Tractors found hazardous

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Deere & Co., of Moline, Ill., has notified a federal safety agency that about 1,400 of its lawn and garden tractors may experience sudden failures which could be hazardous.

The company said it learned from purchasers who requested repairs under warrenty that transmission control linkage pins on its Model 400 tractors could fall out.

If the machine was moving, the company said, the operator may not be able to act quickly enough to stop the machine.

John Deere said it halted sales of the garden tractors earlier this month and is notifying customers to return the tractors to dealers for repairs.

The company said another 3,300 of the tractors still are in its control and will be repaired before marketing.

The tractors, manufactured at the firm's Horicon, Wis., plant, sell for about $3,630 each.

Big spending days no more

NEW YORK (AP) — "The glorious days are over. The days when money flowed like water are gone," sighed the head of a chic New York catering service. "The days of parties for which we sent bills of $60,000 are no more."

And worse, lamented Isabell Mayer of Charles Wilson Ltd., even the more modest bills for catering are not getting paid these days.

"I can almost tell whose money I'll have to wait for. You wouldn't believe the names of those who have kept me waiting for months and months," Mrs. Mayer said. "They put up such big fronts with their bigs and chauffeurs but never pay their bills."

Mrs. Mayer has been delivering such delicacies as clas oregano and Grand Marnier souffle to the homes of the very rich for almost 40 years. There used to be up to 450 parties a year thrown in a bigy by names like Wanamaker and Du Pont, who clamored for her services. Her specialty was debutante parties.

"And they're almost extinct now. Instead of inviting 200 guests to a country estate, now people only invite 30 or 40," said Mrs. Mayer.

She recalled a Rockefeller party where only half the guests invited for cocktails received dinner invitations. And then the menu was — would you believe? — chicken a la king.

People are entertaining less and in smaller numbers, Mrs. Mayer has sadly concluded. Even her average fee of $25 per person—including rented china and glassware whether you want it or not—is too much for some of her old clients. Humble chicken in almond sauce has replaced plump cuts of veal in the dinner plates.

Fortunately, Mrs. Mayer said, the business nce boomed by lavish parents of debutantes has been supplanted by big corporations who use caterers for luncheon meetings.

But there are still those unpaid bills.

The treasurer of an exclusive Fifth Avenue department store said some of their clients pay their bills only once a year — when that trust payment comes through.

"Once you get used to it, it doesn't hurt so much," he said and asked not to be named.

But Animal Gourmet, which features take-out orders of steak and kidney ragout and poached fish for elegant dog diners, has no problems with unpaid bills.

"Thank God, we've never even had one check that bounced," said owner Wilbroad Poulin. "We don't even send out bills. People pay promptly."

Poulin said some monthly bills have run into hundreds of dollars. "And in dog food that's a lot. We've come to the conclusion that people like their dogs better than themselves."

Nigeria awaiting events

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — "This nation is being strangled by its own prosperity. It's like a newly wealthy man switching from a meager diet to a rich one. His arteries start clogging up and he is in danger of suffering heart failure."

The African diplomat was bewailing the endless frustrations and complications of life in the capital city of Black Africa's richest and most populous nation.

As he talked, a stream of cars inched its way along the road outside. In the sea lanes leading to Lagos, Nigeria's most important port, more than 280 ships, laden with commodities essential for Nigeria's existence and growth, queued for berths.

In the crowded, vibrant streets of the city, a new breed of Nigerian entrepreneur who has managed to cash in on the nation's massive oil wealth rubs shoulders with peanut vendors and impoverished inhabitants of shanty towns who are finding it daily more difficult to make ends meet as the cost of living soars.

There are constant shortages of milk, gasoline, beer and other items of daily life here despite the fact that last year Nigeria earned $8.8 billion dollars from oil.

Lagos is not entirely representative of life in the rest of the country. But it is here that the dreams, aspirations and fears of the nation crystallize. And over the past few monthe many residents of the capital have been predicting that something had to give.

Late last month their forecasts came true. As he attended the organization of African Unity summit in Uganda, Gen. Yakabu Gowon was ousted as Nigerian head of state. After nine years of uninterrupted power he was toppled by a handful of dissatisfid brigadiers and colonels who no longer felt he had the authority or capacity to rule.

The new military rulers, headed by 38-year-old Brig. Murtala Muhammed, charged that he had become isolated from the people and was allowing the direction of state affairs to drift to such an extent that the nation's 65-70 million people were again threatened by "bloodshed and chaos."

Nigeria is a conglomeration of some 250 often quarrelsome tribal groupings, divided by religion and culture.

The arid, windswept north is predominantly Moslem, but Christians predominate in the tropical south. Other Nigerians follow their traditional religious customs.

It was Gowon's repeatedly stated desire to weld them irrevocably into one nation. Even his critics agree that he laid the foundations.

Part of the key to his success was Nigerian oil. Fueled by international increases in oil prices, Nigerian coffers were flooded by foreign exchange. But this year falling demand for oil worldwide is expected to cut Nigerian revenues by some $2 billion.

It was the spurt in oil revenues that earlier this year allowed Gowon to award massive pay hikes to civil servants and also launch an ambitious $48 billion, five-year development program. It was designed to create an industrial revolution, boost stagnant agriculture toward self-sufficiency and open up equal opportunities for all Nigerians.

But the pay increases, ranging from 30 to 130 per cent, sparked a series of strikes for similar awards in the private sector, which were met under government pressure.

Yet at least 90 per cent of the nation, reliant on a hand-to-mouth existence from the land, derived little benefit.

As the minority went on a spending spree, inflation soared from 13 to more than 30 per cent.

In addition, as newspapers here have been pointing out in the past week, disillusionment with Gowon's government was further accentuated by a string of broken promises.

These included undertakings to return Nigeria to civilian rule next year, to replace or reshuffle Nigeria's governors then under fire for corruption, and to create new states to make the existing 12 more representative of local aspirations.

Most Nigerians welcomed Gowon's removal. They are biding their time, however, before embracing the new rulers.

One Nigerian summed up the situation: "We are in the position of a man sitting back with his arms folded. We are awaiting events.

Symbolic cake

Federal Land Bank Association of Sikeston directors, from left, Vincent C. Dirnberger of Oran, Ferderick Ferrell of Charleston, Dale Geske of Matthews, Hutson L. Goza of Essex and Charles N. Meier of Jackson and Hal F. Robertson, right, of Sikeston, the association manager, look at a large cake decorated as a $1.5 billion check to farm families in Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas. The cake was cut when the Federal Land Bank of St St. Louis announced Aug. 4 that it has surpassed $1.5 billion in loans outstanding.

Land bank loans record $1.5 billion

ST. LOUIS — Farm and rural families of Arkansas, Illinois and Missouri are now using their borrower- owned cooperative Land Bank System for a record $1.5 billion of long-term farm financing.

The announcement of the $1.5 billion loan level was made at a meeting conducted Aug. 4 and 5 for Federal Land Bank Association directors and managers from the three states served by the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis.

Representing the Sikeston Federal Land Bank Association at the meeting were directors Vincent Dirnberger of Oran, Frederick Ferrell of Charleston, Dale Geske of Matthews, Hutson L. Goza of Essex and Charles N. Meier of Jackson and manager Hal F. Robertson of Sikeston.

In reference to the loan volume achievement Glenn E. Heitz, president of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, said, "The bank has experienced a dramatic growth in loan volume. It reached $500 million in loans outstanding in 1967 - 50 years after being chartered. The Bank became a $1 billion lender in six more years, December 1973; and the additional one-half billion dollar loan volume came in about one and a half years."

"This growth reflects the system's ability to get large amounts of capital into the nation's money markets at reasonable costs for use by American farmers."

"Farmers are using increasing amounts of capital in the form of credit to substitute for other factors of production, expand their operations and utilize the technology needed for optimum profit." he explained.

Heitz attributes part of the Bank's lending growth in the three states to inflation and the upward spiral in farm land prices, requiring larger investments and more debt for those expanding their operations. During the first half of 1975, 41 per cent of land bank loan funds were used for purchasing real estate.

He also cited broadened loan programs and higher lending levels as factors contributing to the increased volume. Nonfarm rural home loans, which the Land Bank has been making for three years, total $26 million of the bank's volume.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, August 20, the 232nd day of 1975. There are 133 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1791, a Danish navigator, Vitus Bering, discovered Alaska.

On this date:

In 1776, George Washington eluded the British in Brooklyn, N.Y., and moved his army across the East River to Manhattan in dense fog.

In 1833, the 23rd American President, Benjamin Harrison, was born in North Bend, Ohio.

In 1914, during World War I, German forces occupied Brussels, Belgium.

In 1941, in World War II, the Rusians blew up their Dnieper Dam as German troops swept across the Ukraine.

In 1955, hundreds were killed in anti-French riots in Morocco and Algeria.

In 1961, the East Germans were busy building a wall along most of the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson denounced black rioters in Los Angeles and said they must be exposed and dealt with in the same way as Ku Klux Klansmen in sheets and masks.

Five years ago: Israel informed the United Nations that it was ready to begin peace talks with Egypt, preferably at the foreign minister level.

One year ago: President Gerald Ford announced Nelson Rockefeller as his choice for Vice President.

Today's birthday: Former baseball manager Al Lopez is 67.
